Budget Committee begins work on fiscal '88 package

work last week on the fiscal 1988 proposed budget of the Board of Selectmen. The committee will work on the document at five sessions during the month of April before returning it to the selectmen. After working on the budget steadily last month, the selectmen managed to trim the town manager's recommendations to $793,603—from an originally proposed $829.075.

If the selectmen's budget is approved by the Budget Committee, there would be a 17 percent increase (over fiscal 1987) in the amount to be raised by taxation If no value is added to the tax rolls, it would require a mill rate increase of $2 per $1,000 of assessed valuation to fund the budget increase. This is in addition to a possible 70 cent millage increase to fund the proposed school assessment

However, the Bethel tax rolls are expected to add considerable value this year and the tax rate increase should be much lower, officials believe. Despite the sharp increase in the amount expected to be raised, Town Manager Rodney Lynch described the budget proposal as "a maintenance budget, which essentially keeps the store open and does nothing more." Much of the big spending in the budget has to do with capital improvement projects: for example, $11,000 is earmarked for additional renovations to the Cole Block, including $9,000 for developing a new meeting room. An additional $10,000 is earmarked for the ongoing capital reserve account towards eventual purchase of a replacement ambulance, to replace No. 99, which is 12 years old and has 69,000 miles on it. Currently a replacement vehicle costs $56,000-$60,000. There is already $21,000 in the reserve account. The police cruiser account already has $7,000, and another $6,000 is earmarked for that account. The present police cruiser is to be replaced in fiscal 1988, at present 1984 cruiser, with 95,000 miles is tion, which would be done by a private

Opinions

Volunteerism at its best

Adversity often brings out the best in people, and that was certainly the case in last week's flood and the aftermath. Volunteers were all over the stricken area helping their neighbors, whether by rescuing them from flooded houses, or making sandwiches or hot coffee, or housing the homeless or helping clean up waterlogged homes.

The Bethel Board of Selectmen this week passed a resolution thanking the Public Works Department, the Fire Department, the CEP, the B.E.A.R.S., the Police Department, the Bethel Area Health Center, the Sewer Department and Water District personnel for the professionalism and quick action in handling the flood situation. They also commended the citizens who donated food, assisted in providing temporary shelter for displaced persons, volunteered their time, vehicles, equipment and boats to transpaort persons, medicine and the mail during the height of the flood crisis.

Bethel Fire Chief Bob Davis says there should be more preparation in case of future disasters. For one thing, he recommends the town emergency personnel have a list of boat owners who can be called upon to volunteer their craft when needed. And the Bethel Hill volunteer firefighters have decided to purchase a 14-foot aluminum boat for rescue work.

Meanwhile, there is still much to be done to get people's homes and town roads back into shape. Maine, and the local communities, await action by the federal government to declare the state a disaster area and release federal funds for disaster relief. The sooner the Reagan administration acts on Gov. McKernan's request for aid, the sooner will local communities damaged by the flood find relief.

Balm in Gilead

The proposed East-West highway from Calais to Gilead may or not belong in the transportation infrastructure of Maine. Whether it has a place in the Maine Highway System commensurate with the costs that it would take to build it is something that can be answered only by a comprehensive survey of the highway requirements of the next century. There is no evidence that it is a highway around which tomorrow's road system should be built, whether or not it is a highway that is a proper incident in that system.

The maintenance of the existing highway system is something to which the State must give its early attention. Roads and bridges already in place need a lot of repair. The second level of concern surely must be the feeder routes that join that system and serve the necessities and conveniences of existing centers of population, meeting a demand that already exists. More efficient transport for major labor pools and for established industrial centers is an urgent requirement.

If there are areas handicapped by lack of access to highways their needs must be examined. It is not safe to assume that several hundred million dollars spent from Gilead to Calais would build a road that would, of itself, "people the wilderness," but the possibility of attendant economic gain needs to be studied, as an aspect of a proper highway network for Maine's future. The priority to be given individual segments of a modernized system can only be determined when a statewide plan is placed on the table.

-The Ellsworth American, April 2, 1987

quite inefficiently, mainly due to a high level of water infiltration into the system. Water infiltration into the skiway's proposed system is expected to be just over 10 percent of output. DEP staffers have told The Citizen they expect the Board of Environmental Protection to approve the application for the permit.

A number of Newry Planning Board members are expected to attend the BEP session, as are skiway officials. There will be a public hearing on the sewer plant proposal at the Newry town office April 17, at 7 p.m.

Mills supports

east-west highway bill

State Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) has announced his support for the Act to Authorize the Construction of an East-West Highway-LD 625, which is under consideration by the 113th Legislature. The bill would authorize the Department of Transportation to construct a highway from Calais to Gilead, following as closely as possible existing Routes 9 and 2. Rep. Mills, a member of the Transportation Committee which will review the measure, announced his support for the concept, assuring constituents that what is proposed is not a 4-lane superhighway. but a major reconstruction of Routes 9 and 2. Such improvments will include shoulders, passing lanes, and changes to permit safe travel at highway speeds. Rep. Mills feels that the East-West Highway will be another important step in improving the transportation system for western Maine, allowing all residents improved travel, while improving the region's economic development picture. "The subject of an east-west route has been talked about for years." stated Mills. "I think it is time to get the job done." Mills plans to move in committee to insure that funding for the East-West highway project be raised in such a manner that it will not divert funding committed to other important road improve-

$58,000. To pay for the revaluation, the town could fund the entire amount in fiscal '88 or fund half the amount while borrowing the balance. Town officials consider revaluation necessary at this time because the town's assessment ratio (assessment value to sales value) has fallen below the state-set minimum of 70 percent. Officials believe the actual assessment ratio in town may be as low as 50 percent. Closing out the present landfill, which is estimated to have only four to six years of life remaining, will cost a lot of money, and officials want to set aside $5,000 in the coming year. They also want to set aside a similar amount for a new solid waste disposal system, whatever system is decided upon. The fire department and public works department both are in need of new vehicles. The fire department is hoping to add money to a fund for a new utility vehicle and a new fire truck, while public works wants to purchase a new dump truck and a new pickup. Both of the latter would be replacement vehicles. The dump truck, with plow and wing, would cost an estimated $47,000. Presently there is $27,000 in the capital equipment reserve account The budget proposal given to the Budget Committee contains about $45,000 for police protection, but the selectmen have not yet stated whether they want the town to continue to maintain its own police department or to contract with the county sheriff's office for protection. Either way, the cost is expected to be the same. The selectmen are expected to make their feelings known when they place the police article on the town meeting warrant.

ment projects, such as the Route 26 and Route 4 Corridor projects. The East-West Highway project would be completed by the year 2000. LD 625 is presently being heard by the Transportation Committee.

newspaper comes out on time. Last week it looked, for awhile, as if I was going to fail to carry out that second responsibility.

As you know, The Citizen uses the press of the Lewiston Sun for printing the paper each Wednesday. I generally arrive there with the pages of the paper at 8 a.m. and bring back the printed paper for distribution around noon. Last Wednesday, as I watched the waters still rising around Bethel Village, and saw boats going out to help take people from their flooded houses, I wondered I would be able to get out of Bethel. Actually, my worries began the night before, as the rising flood played tricks with Bethel's power supply, finally knocking it out for good around 3 a.m. Tuesday night is when our editor, John Brown, puts the final stories into the paper, and fortunately he had power from about 10 p.m. to 3 a.m. to finish making up the pages.

But Wednesday morning, with rain falling steadily, and nothing but rainmade lakes around three sides of the village, things looked gloomy. People said they would understand if the paper didn't come out on schedule, but for me it was a point of honor to publish the paper on the date it was supposed to be ublished.

Only twice before in the paper's history had it been delayed: a fire in the building early in the century set back publication by a full week; and in the flood of 1936, flood waters knocked out electricity, forcing the paper to publish a day late.

Trying to get out of the village reminded me of the scene from "The Seven Samurai," where the outlaws are trapped in a village controlled by the samurai. Prospects looked bleak.

My first thought was to cross the flood at the bus garage and have Edwin Brown-who was on the other side-take the pages to Lewiston. But Tri-Town Rescue informed me that it was impossible to get past Snow Falls or to cross the High Street bridge in West Paris. Thus it was impossible to get to South Paris and beyond.

Going around towards Rumford was Impossible because Rte. 2 was blocked with water, as was Rte. 232 into Bryant Pond. Going out over the Northwest Bethel Road was impossible because of water by the airport.

The flood at the airport also meant I couldn't get someone to fly out our pages. But a helicopter could land on the Common or at Crescent Park School, and the people at the Lewiston Sun said they would send a truck to pick me up at the Auburn airport-if I could get there.

I contacted the nearest helicopter service-in Augusta-and they were willing to do the job. But they couldn't take off. They had zero ceiling and zero

I asked Public Works Director Bob Davis for ideas, and he suggested trying the Songo Pond Road and then going over the hill in Waterford in order to bypass Rte. 118, which was closed by high water. And that is exactly what I did. There were just a few places with deep puddles, and no serious washouts. Getting into and out of Norway was also no problem.

Getting through Mechanic Falls required a detour around part of the town. where a bridge was under water. But from there it was clear sailing-so to speak-to Lewiston.

The folks at the paper there were very accommodating despite the fact that I showed up three hours late. (The circulation manager was also very surprised, because he hadn't been able to get his papers into Bethel that day and wondered how I had gotten out.) Production Manager Jim Costello Jr. kept his

JEFF MILLS NOW A PARTNER IN PENLEY & MILLS COMPANY

Jeffrey N. Mills of Bethel has recentpurchased a partnership in Penley and Mills Company of Bryant Pond, the company founded by the late Norman Mills, Albert Penley Sr., and Sterling Mills in the 1960s. Penley and Mills is a logging and construction company, with major emphasis on wood harvesting on company-owned woodlands. In addition to representing District 49 in the Maine Legislature, Jeff Mills has been employed by Penley and Mills since 1983.

press crew on overtime in order to print The Citizen after Lewiston's afternoon paper (The Journal) had been printed. I was out of there by 3:30 p.m., and then commenced the long drive home. In most areas, the water was already lower than when I passed by in the morning. However the snow that had been falling in the afternoon made travelling even more hazardous.

Especially around Waterford, the few cars that were out were having a difficult time with the heavy snow, Coming up the hill from Waterford flats, a number of us got stuck, unable to climb the hill. My usually trusty Honda Civic could get no grip on the road with its front-wheel drive, since I had 3,000 papers weighting down the back end of the car.

Clyde Stanton, of Waterford, dropped by for a chat as we both waited on the hillside for a sanding truck that he had asked for at the town garage. Finally, when it seemed that night would come before the truck, those of us on the hill began to make renewed efforts to get to the top. I was helped by a half-dozen youngsters who came up and asked if hey could help. With steady pushing on their part and steady nursing on my part, the car finally climbed the 100 yards to the top of the hill and we were on our way to Bethel-against the advice of Mr. Stanton, who had heard the Songo Pond Road was under water.

There was a "road closed" sign at the intersection of Rte. 5 and Rte. 35, but the road was actually less underwater than it had been in the morning.

I made the trip easily until I got to Mill Hill. Then, once more, the Honda could simply not get up the snow-covered hill. Finally, after a couple of tries, Joe Westleigh and Wilbur Crowell came by in Joe's Jeep and hitched up a rope to the Civic and towed us right up.

Cathy Newell was the first one to buy paper, around 6:30, when I finally got he papers to the office. She's usually also the first one to buy a paper when I get the papers back at the regular time. She and her daughter, Martha, also helped John Brown and me get the papers into the office.

I took papers to Edelweiss right away. but the other outlets-and the post office-were already closed.

The remainder of the distribution was made first thing Thursday morning. Thus we did publish on our regularly scheduled day, but just barely. To all those that made it possible to get the pages to Lewiston and the printed paper back to Bethel, my sincere thanks.

Having your weekly or your daily paper on time is one of the little aspects people's regular routine that becomes expected. The same as expecting a cup of hot coffee in the morning or expecting to hear the news on the radio or TV. When these little habits are interrupted, we feel somehow uncomfortable. These, of course, are small discomforts compared to the major discomforts of those who had to leave their homes to escape the flood last week. But for most of us-thank goodness-we only had to bear these small discomforts.

Public Works Director Bob Davis said this week, "It'll take awhile to get things back to normal." But for most of us. things looked quite normal as soon as Dwight Merrill came by Thursday to pick up the trash and as soon as mail carriers began making their rounds the same day.

So far as the delay in the printing of The Citizen, it will go down as a footnote to the great flood of '87.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was interested in reading the recent letters that Louise Bryant Foster Loring has written (published in the March 18 and April 1 Chizen). As the person who recommended Ruby Emery to John Ballentine of New England Press to write an introduction to the reprint of the Woodstock history, I feel I must come to Mrs. Emery's defense. Nowhere in her introduction does she say that the 1882 edition in the Whitman Library is the only one in existence. Mrs. Loring has simply misread this section of the introduction where Mrs. Emery comments upon the scarcity of the original volumes. As for the question of whether or not the Waltons or Christopher Bryant settled the town first, it is difficult to say as it is to determine the first settler in many Oxford County towns. Ruby Emery has spent years researching and writing about Woodstock's history and I think her opinion is worth noting. Like Mrs. Loring I would like to see her evidence favoring the Waltons. But Mrs. Loring relies only on quotes from Dr. Lapham (a secondary source) to support her contention that Bryant was the founder of Woodstock, Lapham was a remarkable local historian but hardly infallible. Mrs. Loring has accepted Lapham's "facts" far too uncritically.

One of the challenges of history is that new sources are always coming to light and must be integrated with older evidence. To complicate matters. however, the perspective in which "the facts" are viewed is continually shifting so any conclusion about the past must be a tentative one at best. This "occupational hazard" keeps historians always alert for the existence for new sources and hesitant about reaching iron-clad conclusions based on that evidence. Stan Howe

To the Editor: Bethel Cablevision Co.'s rate increase-what a rip-off!!

A 55 percent increase and for what? According to their letter of March 20, 1987, it is the program service charges and scrambling costs. Let's look at these:

First-who says I want to pay for scrambling a signal my neighbor-who has paid for a dish antenna-may receive-I don't want to mess up his signal and I don't want to pay to have it done! Second—on increased program service charges-I'd like the Cablevision Co. to prove this statement by publishing their "pro forma" statement and a current tation proving increased program service charges. To the contrary, the Wall Street Journal on March 31, 1987 clearly states that "the pay networks are cutting the prices they charge operators."

To the Editor:

I feel obligated to comment on the TV show "Back Country Blues" shown on Boston TV channel 5 this past week. I know many of the people on the program which was most enjoyable. I am truly sorry for the misfortunes that have befallen Roy and Ann Patten and truly hope and pray that things will improve for them. They are nice people. However-my gripe was with Ms. Chule. I don't think she truly described the people of Bethel, Maine, and I resented her "babbling" as much as I resented her dull book. I've known many "Bean families" and never knew any as she described them. She tried for a "God's Little Acre," but fell short a country mile

The performances of the play Godspell by Sunshine Productions of Massachusetts were enthusiastically received over the weekend. The volunteer actors shared with us both their love of the gospel message and their talent and energy. They felt rewarded by the very positive reaction of the audiences.

The Oxford Union Association of the United Church of Christ wishes to thank Carol Fiske and Gould Acadeny for making the auditorium and lighting systems available to the cast and the Mahoosuc Arts Council for its promotion and ticket sales. It was because of the existence of the Arts Council and the continued generosity of Gould that we felt confident that we could bring the play to Bethel on short notice.

Thanks to all who attended the performances. Your response will encourage similar productions in the future, I am

To the Editor: Hunger is an issue that most people see as charts and pie graphs, and numbers that are big, but impossible to put into perspective. Hunger is an idea that has bothered me for a long time, but like most people, I felt that it was a futile issue, that my words merely expressed my frustration then dispersed into the

I think our attitude of hunger as mathematics is like the attitude we have with most other political problems. We look at how the numbers affect us, keeping the Issue abstract, rather than dealing with it as communities of real people with inadequate nutrition.

When Dick Starets, a representative of The Hunger Project, spoke to my class at Gould Academy, the statistics became real, understandable numbers of people from real countries, real families. For an understandable number, $25 million as an annual contribution would be enough money to end hunger on earth by the turn of the century. That's only 3 days' worth of the U.S. Gross National Product. No more hunger on the planet! That much money, divided among the stable industrial nations of the world, is a pittance considering the result. Throwing money, or even food, at the problem, however, will not end hunger alone. We need to work on distribution. education, and improvements in the medical treatment available worldwide. Distribution of food, equipment, etc. continues to be the biggest problem in world hunger. The supply of technology is limited in underdeveloped countries where self sufficiency takes a back seat to defense. This hinders development from within. With help, these people can help themselves. Please join me as an active citizen and write, speak, and act out about hunger. Hunger is a difficult issue to talk about, and won't go away overnight, but hunder isn't inevitable. If we spread our feelings and pool our frustrated energy, we can help to end hunger in Maine, in the United States, in the world.

garage, where the working area was under three feet of water. A washout along the Canadian National Railway track in Gilead closed the line until workmen could fill in the approximately 4,500 cubic yards of dirt that were lost in the washout. The state Civil Emergency Preparedness office has directed all towns to inventory damage to roads, structures and infrastructure and submit damage estimates to the state CEP office. If and when federal aid becomes available, the state will have in hand an inventory of the damage that needs repair.

Bethel's Town Manager Lynch said the greatest need at the moment is financial assistance for homeowners whose properties were damaged. In Bethel, approximately 40 homes sustained damage from the flood. Alice McAllister's home, in the Steam Mill section along Rte. 2, is considered a total loss and she is staylng with friends.

Insurance agent Scott Dennis said his office-Kendall Insurance-is being flooded with calls from people wanting to know if their flood damage is covered by their insurance policies. In most cases, Mr. Dennis said, unless the homeowner has federal flood insurance, the homes are not covered.

However, the Maine State Housing Authority is offering low interest loans for repair of flood damage.

The Bethel area was not hit nearly as hard as some areas. Statewide, communities along the Kennebec River, the Penobscot River and the Piscataquis River seemed hardest hit. Farmington, on the Sandy River also suffered greatly. Of the towns on the Androscoggin River, Canton, Mexico and Rumford suffered much greater losses than towns in the Bethel area.

While in some areas of the state ofrecorded, officials in other areas were terming it the worst flood in 50 years-to what it was in some places," remarked Bethel Public Works Director Bob Davis.

Those people in the Bethel area who recall the flood of 1936 mostly consider the 1987 flood a runner-up, which was quite enough. As Mr. Davis said, "It's been 50 years since we had one like this."

In Bethel itself, about a dozen families. or 40 people, had to evacuate their homes. The hardest hit areas were Dooen's trailer park, the Steam Mill, Mayville, the Northwest Bethel Road and Vernon Street, Evacuees stayed with friends and relatives or at the Bethel fire station, which had heat and light, thanks to a newly purchased emergency

What a rain storm we have had, and the snow melting, sure has made plenty of water to cause lots of trouble in the state of Maine. I said when they told how much rain we might get that there would very likely be flooding, I'm just thankful that we don't live near the water and have to be moved when we get so much rain, As Russell said this morning, it looks like winter wonderland outside with the snow that fell yesterday afternoon and a little during the evening. The birds and squirrels are trying to find something to eat out back and it is fun to watch the little juncos scratch to find food.

Saw the first little robin two days ago and he looked real pert but it won't be good looking for food for the robins till this snow melts. Perhaps it will do just that before the day is over.

morning, Hilda Taylor called in one evening with a couple of things I had ordered. Helen Strout came up to get help with some of her studies but I wasn't too much help that evening.

Wynona called from Lewiston and told me she had fallen and hurt her ankle badly. The x-rays showed she had pulled the ligaments badly so don't know as she will be able to help Michael with his grand opening of LaVerdiere's at North Port Plaza in Portland, He has been working so many long hours to get the new store ready. Hopefully, I will get to see it in the near future, where I can't go down now.

He came up to get my car for Nonle to drive as she couldn't use the clutch after hurting her ankle.

She had gone to the knitting bazaar for knitting needles the wind slammed the door against her ankle. She said she thought she had broken it at firstby xrays showed differently. Ligaments can be worse that a break some times. Hope she goes over it quickly for her sake.

It is a shame that we had to have such flooding with this rain storm but nothing one can do about about it only clean up after and go one. I feel so badly for folks who had water come into their homes and ruin so many things. It is so hard to make a living today, anyway, and to have something like this happen, makes it even worse. I am just thankful that we live on the higher level of land. I love the water as much as anyone but would never build near a river or other large stream. You just never know when something like this freak storm will come along and cause you to lose so much. West Paris Grange tonight and I was asked to fill an office but guess I won't be going. Hopefully, Russell can go if he so desires but I'll stay home.

Did anybody and everybody get an April Fool joke? Eveline studies the 'Old Farmer's Almanac" and it said, "Fool's cold, snow we're told" for April 1 and when she mentioned it several people laughed at me and said there be no snow in this beautiful spring weather, but we got some along with plenty of water. NLP workshop to be offered May 8-9

at Bingham House

The SAD #44 Adult and Community Education Program is pleased to announce the offering of a special development Workshop-Using Your Brain for a Change/NLP. Barbara Greig of NTL will be the facilitator for this workshop exploring the subject of Neuro-Linguistic Programming (NLP), to be held at the Bingham House in Bethel on Friday evening, May 8, and all-day Saturday, May 9. In describing the topic, Greig said. "We have more influence on our thoughts and feelings than we frequently think. This influence can be either positive or negative and can either keep us from living our lives the way we most want, or can help us to enrich our lives. NLP, based on recent brain research, provides a way to identify our own mental and behavioral patterns that keep us from living the way we would like, and helps us use these patterns to our benefit. It also helps us to change these patterns to more productive results." Greig will be in Bethel during the coming summer as a staff member for a series of NLP workshops for managers, trainers, and team leaders. Initially use for effecting individual change, NLP is now used in the training process with groups and organizations.

At the workshop, participants will learn ways to identify their own patterns of high performance, how to apply these patterns to specific areas of their lives, how to exercise more control over their responses to others and to the environment, and how to use past performances -positive and negative-to enhance present performance. Patterns for individual high performance are able to be identified, and learned using NLP tech-

Cathy Newell, SAD #44 Director of Adult and Community Education and member of the Bethel/Liaison Committee, stated that this workshop should be a fine addition to the list of programs cosponsored by the Liaison Committee and local adult education. Barbara Greig has been a regular NTL staff member in Bethel, and her Sunrise Seminars in 1985 and 1986 on NLP were highly acclaimed and led to the request for a more in-depth workshop. To enroll in the NLP Workshop, call the SAD #44 Adult and Community Education office, 824-2780. Please register by May 1. There will be a registration fee of $20 which will include lunch on Saturday.

Running water! There are no words that hold such magic! They evoke lovely images, the sound of it and the cool purity of its touch. There's a sense of mystery and adventure. Where did it come from, this stream? Where did it start? The pattern is the same; first the ley mountain brook, flowing over pebbles, moving to join another stream, as it forms and tumbles through little gorges; then to form a silvery mountain lake. Here it may leap in a cataract and roar on through the foothills before gathering itself between grassy banks on its way to meet the tides.

This is the way of running water. Its scale changes with the scale of the land it nourishes. So this 26th day of March I went out between the showers to listen to my brooks sing, gurgle, and talk their way down the hills. It some way there was crystalline transparency, completely free from sediment. In other shoals of black, formed of decaying leaves intermingled with twigs and little puffs of green algae rode in the flow of the run

Behind me, below me, beyond me the brooks swirled, hurried and tumbled along their rocky beds. All their liquid sounds pushed back the stillness.

Like the wind these brooks exist only in motion and may extend through years flowing on and on. They are life without life, without sensation or emotion, but with action, music, and beauty, I like

I paused to look at a maple which I have passed many times and used to wonder about. There is another very near. The diameter of one is much more than the other. The smaller bends and disappers into the larger. To me this was a mystery which Clyde, a woodsman, at one time explained to me. Sometimes a soft maple, quick growing, is bent by the wind or a storm and its top is lodged in the crotch of an older maple. The latter grows around it. Eventually the top dles and falls away. The lower part remains and the upper end disappears into the wood of another tree.

I returned home. A quiet elation filled my mind. Spring, spring will soon be Torrents of sleek sheets of silver rain pelted against rooftops, belted against window panes-driveways here became sodden masses of slimy mud, before filling to miniature rivers. Birds huddle on the tables, their bodies laden down with dampness, too cold, too desolate, to move, and we were in the throes of the worst spring flooding since the spring of 1936. Power was off in town permanently from 3 a.m. until 2 p.m. the following afternoon. Rumors prior to that had been circulating that there would be no power here for 2 or 3 days. Those without the foresight to have had stored bottles of drinking water were panicking. Route 2 towards New Hamsphire was washed away just after the cement bridge, and on down the road towards Bethel the Pleasant River made it impossible to travel there. Exit via the North Road, was impossible also, so we were isolated here without daily papers, electricity or water in many cases. Big Ed's Diner and Country Store became a refuge for stranded travelers and thankfully, news of the storm's progress in other areas

At this point and time many families began to plan for the future in case Mother Nature plans to deluge us again in this manner. Among the most valuable purchases would be: a portable generator and potty chair; extra tissue paper; a can of 48 hour deodorant; and last but not least, a manually operated can

All in all we were fortunate here in Gilead and our heart goes out to our neighbors below us who were not as fortunate as we.

The Greenwood Historical Society had to be cancelled this month due to the weather. George Haines has returned to work on the building and hopefully will be able to finish what was originally scheduled to be done.

Easter is coming up soon. The Locke Mills Church has been invited to participate in the Maundy Thursday service at the West Paris Mission Church at 7 p.m., April 16. Anyone needing transportation please call Silver Leamon, There will be an Easter Sunrise Service at the cemetery behind the Locke Mills Church on Easter, April 19. A breakfast will follow at the Sunday School room. Other area services will include a Sunrise Service at the Bryant Pond Baptist Church on Easter and a Good Friday Service at the Bethel Church of the Nazarene on April 17 at 7 p.m.

The Ladies Circle will meet on April 15 at 1:30 p.m. at the Sunday School room. The Locke Mills Church has participated in the One Great Hour of Sharing but if anyone still wishes to donate there is still time. Also they are still receiving contributions to their winter oil fund which are gratefully accepted. Bertha Flanders was present at the installation at the O.E.S. in Mechanic Falls Friday evening and at Bryant Pond on.

Saturday evening. Louis Martin has returned to Chapel Valley after being in the Norway hospital with phlebitis. He is still having to go for x-rays at the hospital for another problem that was discovered while he was there, however. Mr. and Mrs. John Mills were in Norway Friday evening where they visited Mr. and Mrs. Donald Mills.

Rodney Cross has returned home following a stay at Norway hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Martin of Bryant Pond visited Mrs. Bertha Flanders

Saturday. Rev. and Mrs. Lyle Van Horn and

Daniel of Mexico visited Mrs. John Mills, The big new of the week is, of course, the rain and flooding with its power children and parents, and space to fill in outages, school cancellations, and all the attending inconveniences and discomto use in an emergency when no adult is forts to be followed by the snowstorm that just seemed to add insult to injury. Due to the much better warning systems and equipment and well trained personnel and the fact that the ice was out in the river what could have been a major disaster was only a a minor one with no loss of life. Everyone is really grateful to those who worked long and hard hours to keep us safe and to keep things functioning as much as possible. Well done wherever you are.

L'Auberge

THIS WEEK AT THE Moses Mason House

Approximately 60 persons attended the April meeting of the Bethel Historical Society last Thursday evening to hear Mary C. Keniston present some highlights of one of Bethel's most historic areas-Mill Hill. Due to the presence of a stream suitable for operating grist and saw mills, this section of Bethel, just below Bethel Hill was one of the first to be settled. The man responsible for much of this development was Eleazer Twitchell (1744-1818), who built a saw and grist mill near the site of the present Mill Brook bridge. Later a worker's house was constructed here. This site proved unfeasible for residences due to the high water of 1785. Twitchell moved to a site about half way up the present Mill Hill and built a cabin. This soon proved too small for his 12 children and he built the large clapboard house near the top of the hill (just behind the present Opera House Condominium) known as "The Castle." The road on Mill Hill began as a bridal path cleared by Twitchell in order to reach his "Castle."

Through the years the Mill Hill area has been the site of a grist mill, several saw mills, potash works, carding mill, fulling mill, and starch factory among others, Eber Clough (1814-1893) is listed in the 1874 Maine Register as a manufacturer of woolens, starch, spools and salt boxes here. Deacon Robbins Brown (1786-1862) operated a tannery here which was later owned by his sons David (1812-1882) and Robbins Jr. (1818-1879). One of the most enduring of Mill Hill buildings was the wagon and carriage shop operated by Frank C. Bartlett (1835-1905) and later by his son Frank B. "Frankie" (1881-1958), Mrs. Keniston recalled her own memories of "Frankie's" shop and quoted from those of Catherine Lyon Bush, Francis Berry and Margaret Joy Tibbetts.

Mill Hill was also the site of several residences, several of which have been destroyed by fire or the wrecker's hammer through the years. It still is home to several families and a large number of famlies have rented there through the years. Mrs. Keniston provided many details and slides of past and present Mill Hill buildings and and people. One of the most interesting institutions on Mill Hill was the maternity house operated by Linnie Abbott where so many Bethel people were born in the teens and early

Mrs. Keniston emphasized the change in Mill Hill from being primarily a manufacturing center in the 19th and early 20th centuries to a residential one today. There are no mills left, only a few foundations. Yet it is still possible to see in this most historic place.

During the business portion of the meeting, President Alden Kennett announced that the acquisition of the month was a souvenir plate made in Germany with a view of Bethel painted on it with the caption "Saddleback, Bethel, Maine." It was made for Laura C. Hall who erated a gift shop in the Cole Block in

News from Adult & Community Education

Adult and Community Education classes in SAD #44 resumed on Monday, April 6. following the flood cancellations of last week. All sessions will be made up at the end of the courses. The Apple Users Group program will be rescheduled for a regular monthly meeting later in the year, according to Adult and Community Education Director Cathy Newell.

A number of Adult and Community Education courses are starting during the month of April, including the Home-Buying Course sponsored by the Maine State Housing Authority, a 5-week course which will begin on Wednesday, April 8 at Telstar. Rock-hounding, to be held at the home of Norman Davis in Newry, will begin on Tuesday, April 14 for 6 weeks, and will include field trips to areas of minerological significance in Oxford County. A Spring Bike Tune-up will be held at Outward Bound in Newry on Tuesday, April 23 and 30 will Jonathan Goldberg. For further information or to enroll in any of these programs, call the Adult Education office, 824-2780. The Advisory Council for SAD #44 Adult and Community Education will meet on April 29 at Telstar. The Council will be discussing the report of the Proram Review Team, and planning to future courses. There will be some adult education programs during the summer months, although workshops and short courses will be featured rather than long courses. Anyone who has a course to suggest or who would like to teach a course or workshop should contact Cathy Newell as soon as possible.

Penny Poor of Plymouth, N.H., spent the weekend visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archer Poor, Jr.

On Tuesday afternoon high water and closed roads cancelled school early and quite a few people were not able to attend the special town meeting. Wednesday school was again cancelled and no way in or out of Andover for quite sometime. Still no school on Thursday because of washouts and slippery roads. Road crews were out in force filling in washouts. Finally on Thursday afternoon the Lewiston Sun paper deliverer arrived with two days papers with all the pictures of floodings.

Snow Valley Snow Goers are having a dance at Andover Town Hall April 11 from 9 to 1 a.m. Tickets are available at Akers store. Lunch will be served.

Rev. Marriotte Churchill's sermon topic on Sunday, March 29, was "A New Person in Christ." The adult choir met Sunday morning to practice Easter music and the Youth Group met in the evening, Monday Rev. Churchill was in Augusta at a healing meeting. Friday afternoon the children's choir practiced. Next week is all church sing by the deacons and choir. Deacon on call this week is Dolly Jones, 392-2661.

For families with small children and two working parents Day Care is an essential service in American communities in the 1980s. And in Oxford County the two-income family has become an accepted, necessary pattern for young families working to maintain an acceptable standard of living. Community Concepts, Inc., provides 1173 support services to 24 licensed day care homes throughout Oxford County. All of these day care providers participate in the Department of Agriculture, Food and Nutrition Services' Child Care Food Programs which assures that each child receives daily well-balanced and nutritious meals and snacks.

Many day care homes under the Community Concepts' sponsorship program include children of low-income, working families. Funded under a federal program, day care fees are nominal (as low as $5 per week) and based on a sliding scale related to family income. While all day care homes serve private fee-paying families, those participating in the federal program must also include children facing unusually stressful circumstances, children of families seeking employment or those classifed as Protective Service children of the Department of Human Services.

Families in Oxford County seeking day care services are encoureaged to contact Community Concepts, Inc., Market Square, South Paris, or call Katey Coffin, Children's Services 743-7716. There are 26 funded day care openings for children in Oxford County, and information is also available on these places for qualifying families with pre-school

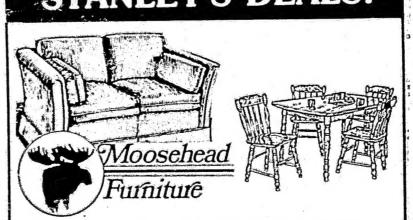

The Child Care Food Program provides a subsidy to day care providers to defray food costs. Currently licensed homes or new day-care providers interested in participating in the Food and Nutrition program are urged to contact Children's Services at Community

Those who provide day care in their homes and are not part of Community Concepts' Day Care Support Program are also encouraged to contact Community Concepts, Inc., to learn more about the licensing process. Licensing information can also be obtained by writing the Department of Human Services, Licensing Unit, State House Station 11, Augusta, Maine 04333 or calling 289-5060. Licensing assures parents and providers that day care homes meet basic requirements of health and safety.

Congratulations to Angela Lovejoy and Nancy Morgan, students in Mrs. Baldwin's 4th grade, Angela and Nancy have mastered their addition, subtraction, multiplication and division one hundred basic fact timed tests in less than three minutes!

Mrs. Gilbert's fourth graders are really enjoying the rabbits loaned to them by Maryyonne Wheeler. They's also learning a lot about rabbits; like what a rabbit's home is called and that rabbits are born with their eyes closed and without hair while hares are born with a full coat of fur and their eyes opened!

As you may be aware, a vast majority of EBS/CPS teachers spend an hour after school each week sharing ideas on the writing process they are using. In addition the following teachers are very involved in courses after school:

Ms. Howe, Ms. Seames, and Mrs. Ellsworth; graduate courses in Farmington and Gorham.

CARS MUST YIELD TO HORSES The Maine State Police remind motorists that horses have the right-ofway on Maine roads.

"With the increased use of horses in springtome, motorists are reminded to Monday, April 13: Regular meeting use reasonable caution when approaching these animals on our roads," of the SAD #44 Board of Directors, 7:30 said Col. Andrew Demers, Jr., chief of the Maine State Police. Tuesday, April 14: Bethel Rotary

Col. Demers said motorists can be fined up to $250 if they drive in such a manner as to willfully annoy, startle, harass or frighten any horse being ridden or driven in any direction on or near a public road.

Maine Law (Title 29, sec. 997) states that a motorist must stop on approaching a frightened horse, as signaled by a raised hand or by any other visible sign by the person with the animal. The motorist is to come to a stop as soon as possbile and allow the horse to pass.

B.E.A.R.S.

Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service

Thank you from Arlene Greenleaf to all the people that helped in the final practical exam of the EMT class on Thursday March 26 and at the state testing on Monday, march 30. There were 15 people involved on helping out with the testing on March 26, and 20 at the testing session on March 30. People that helped test on March 30 were from Wilton, Tri-Town, Stoneham, Rural Emergency Medical Services, and Bethel.

The BEARS are grateful that all stayed well and no major accidents occurred during the recent flood.

Safety Tip Be careful when working with tools. Make sure you are using them as they are supposed to be used. When a tool is used improperly it may break or slip causing harm to the user. Take the time to do things right. Do not hurry or use make-shift things. Most injuries are the result of carelessness. When extra help is needed, get that extra help. Do not try to do something that is beyond your knowledge or your capabilities.

CARS MUST YIELD TO HORSES The Maine State Police remind motorists that horses have the right-ofway on Maine roads.

"With the increased use of horses in springtome, motorists are reminded to use reasonable caution when approaching these animals on our roads, said Col. Andrew Demers, Jr., chief of the Maine State Police.

Col. Demers said motorists can be fined up to $250 if they drive in such a manner as to willfully annoy, startle, harass or frighten any horse being ridden or driven in any direction on or near a public road.

Maine Law (Title 29, sec. 997) states that a motorist must stop on approaching a frightened horse, as signaled by a raised hand or by any other visible sign by the person with the animal. The motorist is to come to a stop as soon as possbile and allow the horse to pass.

B.E.A.R.S.

Bethel Emergency Ambulance and Rescue Service

Thank you from Arlene Greenleaf to all the people that helped in the final practical exam of the EMT class on Thursday March 26 and at the state testing on Monday, march 30. There were 15 people involved on helping out with the testing on March 26, and 20 at the testing session on March 30. People that helped test on March 30 were from Wilton, Tri-Town, Stoneham, Rural Emergency Medical Services, and Bethel. The BEARS are grateful that all stayed well and no major accidents occurred during the recent flood.

Safety Tip Be careful when working with tools. Make sure you are using them as they are supposed to be used. When a tool is used improperly it may break or slip causing harm to the user. Take the time to do things right. Do not hurry or use make-shift things. Most injuries are the result of carelessness. When extra help is needed, get that extra help. Do not try board which was held immediately after to do something that is beyond your knowledge or your capabilities.

IN MEMORIAM

In Memory of Myrtle Keniston

who passed away April 11, 1972 Dear Auntie.

I wish you were here to see, the beautiful springtime here now, with your sister and me.

It's now fifteen years and we still reminisce, and think of those times we so very much miss.

Those times we shared were so special in each way. We hold them in our hearts, and that's where they'll stay.

You're in good hands where you are up above, just want you to know we're still missing you. With love.

OF FLOOD VICTIMS' ASSISTANCE Rep. Jeff Mills (D-Bethel) has assembled the following information relating to assistance available to visitims of loss in the recent flood.

INFORMATION ON AVAILABILITY

Governor McKernan is applying to Washington for Federal Disaster Relief, which must be approved by President Reagan. Funds would then be allocated to Maine. Senator George Mitchell's office will send a packet of information relating to flood assistance to those who request it. Anyone interested in receiving the packet should contact Mitchell's office, 743-0163.

According to Bethel Civil Emergency Preparedness Norman Clanton, damage report forms, available to the Bethel town office and at Prim's Pharmacy in Bethel should be filled out and returned as soon as possible. Information from these forms will be used by the state to substantiate the request for disaster relief. He urged those who have suffered damage to document such damage with pictures if possible.

Mitchell hosts meeting in So. Paris April 14

Sen. George Mitchell will hold a public meeting at the Oxford Hills Jr. High School cafeteria, in South Paris, next Tuesday, April 14, at 7 p.m.

Oxford County residents are invited to attend and to express their opinions, concerns and questions on federal matters.
